Water System Alert – Update

Well #1; one of the three test results came back NEGATIVE today. The water operators will get it back online tomorrow or Monday. A bigger pump has been installed in that well so we should be fine using Well #1 and #4 until Well #5 is ready to go back online.

Well #5; all three test results were positive for “Total C”. The water operators will continue to flush and test until we get the negative results we need.

At this point, I won’t provide an update on Well #5 unless it to advise all three returned negative and we’ll be bringing the well back online. No news can be assumed we’re still waiting on negative results.

It remains important that everyone continues to do their part and not use any more water than necessary abiding by the Stage 4 restrictions.

We need to recognize that our water operators, Brent Crocker and Jeff Walker, have been working extremely hard coordinating the pump tests, flushing the wells, gathering and delivering samples for testing along with all their normal daily duties so if you see them when you’re out and about in the cove, please be sure to thank them because they are really doing an amazing job and don’t always get the recognition they deserve!!
